OLDS SCHOOL DIV. SHOWS COMPOSITE HIGH SCHOOL PLAN

The establishment of a Composite High School within the boundaries of the Olds School Division No. 31 which has been under consideration for some months, has been turned down by members of the Board, the reason being that the cost will be almost prohibitive under present plans.

W.H. Davies and Mr. Crisp were in Edmonton recently to interview the Department of Education officials in an endeavor to have the terms modified, so as to give more financial assistance to the School Division, but this assistance was refused. The Department is prepared only to pay half the initial cost of buildings, not including a dormitory, and would also give the usual grant towards the technical course.

After giving the proposition full consideration the members of the Olds School Division No. 31 at their last meeting definitely turned down the proposal, and for the present at least the Division will continue to operate as in the past.

MRS. H.H. BARNES PASSES IN DIDSBURY HOSPITAL FRIDAY

Mrs. Hattie Henrietta Barnes passed away in the Didsbury hospital on June 15th, 1945 after a prolonged illness. She was born in Missouri, Feb. 8, 1870 and was united in marriage to Mr. Edward L. Barnes at Lewiston, Idaho, Dec. 22, 1915. They lived at Plaza, Wash. before coming to Didsbury in 1913. Mrs. Barnes was predeceased by her husband on April 27th of this year, and is survived by two sons, Perry of Valdez, Wash., and Ellis of Didsbury; and by three grand children and one great grand child, also by two brothers, Ben of Lewiston, Idaho, and Alfred of Richmond, B.C.

Funeral services were held Monday, June 18, from the Didsbury United Church with Rev. A. Frey officiating. Mrs. Harry Pearson and Mrs. Benny Sinclair, members of the Women's Institute of which Mrs. Barnes was a member, rendered the solo "Whispering Hope".

Active pallbearers were Edward Blain, Edward Liesemer, Thomas McCall, Henry Hooper, Ernie St. Clair and Basil Atkinson. Herb Fiske was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. SELINA MOORE DIES AT THREE HILLS

Mrs. Selina Moore, an old-timer of the district who lived in Didsbury during the last year, died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ken Moore at Three Hills, where she has resided for the past four years.

Funeral services were held at Three Hills Monday, and the remains were later brought to Didsbury for burial in the Didsbury cemetery.

RIGID RATIONING

Of the three countries—Canada, Britain and the United States—Britain alone operates rationing programs for eggs, fluid milk, lard and shortening, cereal breakfast foods, citrus fruits, dried fruits, dried beans and peas, rice, tea, chocolate and candy. Through supplying food to the starving nations in Europe and the curtailment of shipping to bring in its own supplies, Britain has had to make its rationing still more severe with the end of the war in Europe.

CITRUS JUICES ON MARKET

Canned, blended grapefruit and orange juice to satisfy Canada's nutritional needs of Vitamin C will arrive in limited quantities from the United States, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces. The import of blended juice will offset the decrease in grapefruit juice imports due to poor grapefruit crops in the United States and heavy commitments to the armed forces.

The price of the blended juice, which between the two types, will be higher than the established price of grapefruit juice.

FARM MACHINERY FIELD DAY HERE JULY 9 AND 10

Following completion of the farm machinery field days at the end of June, a series of two day courses dealing with harvesting machinery are being arranged by the Alberta department of agriculture.

This two day course will be held at Didsbury on July 9 and 10. The short courses should have the effect of providing information whereby economy of production will be increased and loss of time due to breakdowns and faulty operation reduced to the minimum.

CROPS COMING SLOWLY

Cool showery weather this spring has promoted good germination of seed grain, but growth has been slow due to lack of warm weather. Showers have been experienced over most of the district this past week, and some hail has been reported, although loss is said to be negligible so far.

Warm weather is urgently needed now to bring the crops along and give the grain a chance to mature before the season gets too late. According to the Alberta Wheat Pool crop report the cold spring has delayed growth over the whole of Alberta.

HOME ECONOMICS DEMONSTRATION AT THE PUBLIC SCHOOL

A colorful display of sewing, embroidery and knitting was given in the Home Economics Room at the Didsbury Public School on June 15 at 3:00 p.m. It was attended by 75 of the girls mothers and friends. Forty-five children's dresses which had been made by the girls for the Red Cross to be used for refugee children were shown. Grace Gole gave a short speech for the Red Cross, and donations amounting to $11.00 were received.

Against a background of spring colors banked with flowers the girls modelled dresses they had made for themselves.

Lunch was served by the girls. Prizes were awarded by Miss E. Willson for the best work of the year to Lene Reiffenstein and Kathryn Grasser for Home Economics I, and to Jean Renne and Lois Falk in Grade seven and eight. Judges were Mrs. Reider, Mrs. McArthur and Mrs. McFarquhar.

The demonstration also included a display of art by Mrs. Dawkins grade four and five pupils.

For the girls this pleasant afternoon concluded a very delightful and helpful year, and the able instruction of Miss E. Willson, and gave the mothers an opportunity to observe their daughters' progress.

NOTES FROM THE EAST

The W.I. met on Thursday last at the home of Mrs. Floyd Altham with a large attendance. The delegate to the Edmonton conference gave a very interesting report.

The date set for the Lone Pine Picnic is July 6, and a dance will be held the same night. The tent draw was won by Mrs. Dowell. Mrs. Harry Richardson had a contest which was quite different than anything enjoyed for some time. Members were to guess how many pounds in a jar of home made relish. Mrs. Bruce Shells won the contest, guessing exactly right, 4 1/2 lbs.

Visiting Altham favored the gathering with a guitar solo and at the close of the meeting a lovely pot luck lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Altham and Vivian. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Hughes on the first Thursday in July inasmuch as the second Thursday, as usual.

Mrs. Joe Clark received word that her son Jack has been promoted to navigating officer.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Arthur Jenkins has received the sad news from Wales of the death of her sister.

The neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Jenkins send congratulations on the birth of a son in the Didsbury hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Schumacher spent Friday in Calgary.

Mrs. T. Raveroff and son Bernard, Mrs. Olafsch and Mrs. Coll Henneman were visitors Tuesday with Mrs. Dowell and Fred Metz.

The nephew of Mrs. Harry Richardson, P.O. Howard Wilton, of Acme is home after being a prisoner of war in Germany for eight months.

Notice to Schools: If you are interested in playing basketball at the Lone Pine picnic on July 6, it will be necessary for you to write to Mrs. Sandy Brauer RFE to make arrangements before June 30th.

REBECCA ACTIVITIES

A pleasant afternoon was spent at the home of Mrs. Ronald Luff recently when 19 Rebecca members during the afternoon a large quilt was tied and some face cloths crocheted around.

Five dollars will be donated to the "Milk for Britain" Fund by the group.

We wish to remind the ladies to bring their crocheted hanks to the next meeting when more face cloths will be worked on.

A lovely lunch was served by Mrs. Luff and the ladies adjourned to meet again at the home of Mrs. Ed Craig on June 27th.

Danger Of Inflation

THROUGHOUT THE EUROPEAN WAR the people of Canada were constantly warned of the danger of inflation. With the cooperation of the public, however, price controls, wage ceilings and other anti-inflation measures have been carried out with the result that the cost of living here has risen very little in comparison with that of many other countries. Had living costs gone up to the extent often experienced in time of war, the people at home would have had a much more difficult time, and the war effort as a whole would have suffered. The inconveniences of attempting to keep wages and prices stabilized have been many, but the people have appeared to realize that these inconveniences are small, compared to the economic chaos which accompanies inflation.

Pacific War May Be Long

Since the Canadian Army and a large part of the Navy and Air Force have for over five years been in service in Europe, the end of hostilities there has meant that, for a time at least, the strain and anxiety of war has been eased for many people here. The gradual conversion of some war industries to the production of civilian goods has added to the feeling that we are entering upon a much less critical phase of hostilities. There is danger, however, in failing to realize that our forces will soon be involved in the war in the Pacific and that there is no indication now that the struggle there may not go on for some time. It must also be realized that, as long as we are at war, there is danger of the evils which accompany it, and that one of these evils is inflation. Lack of vigilance now would undo all that has been accomplished since 1939, and would in addition, destroy our opportunities for stability in the reconstruction period.

Public Support Must Continue

Vigilance will also be necessary during the time that the armed forces are being demobilized and war industries converted to peacetime production. The first year and a half following World War I saw a rapid rise of prices and it is believed that there is danger of the same thing happening when this war ends if the people fail to support price controls and other precautions against inflation. Finance Minister Tully, in a statement on this subject said, "Sharply rising prices in the demobilization and reconstruction period would undoubtedly be followed by inflation and serious unemployment afterwards." Canada experienced a long period of unemployment and depression shortly before the war, and there is no one who would wish to see these conditions return. Public restraint in spending, and cooperation in maintaining stability of wages and prices even after the war is ended, will be one important factor making for security in the future.

HOW YOU CAN GET QUICK RELIEF FROM SORE, PAINFUL PILES

Most people seem to think that the only way to lower down the painful pile tumors soon to get relief from their most painful piles is by local treatment. Local treatment may give temporary relief from the itching and pain, but it does not cure the hemorrhoids. The only way to get quick relief from hemorrhoids is by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound. Well Fed

Canada Has Least Reason To Complain About Food Shortage. What we ought all to remember is that, except for butter and sugar, Canada is now better fed than ever before. Our production of food has increased enormously during the war in spite of labor and other shortages, and although much of our output is exported, quite enough food is left here to meet all reasonable requirements. Of all the world's countries, Canada has at the moment probably the best reason to complain about its food position, Brockville Recorder and Times.

The history of meat in Canada goes back almost three centuries.

Just Another Citizen

Princess Juliana Was Thoroughly Democratic Visitor In Canada.

Princess Juliana, the heir apparent to the throne of the House of Orange who has now returned to her people freed at last from the Nazi yoke was a most kindly, friendly and thoroughly democratic visitor in Canada. She lived quietly and simply at her home in Rockcliffe, a residential suburb of the capital. At any time she might be seen walking headed along its winding streets with friends, usually her neighbors, or with her children. She put her foot down on the idea of sending her two daughters to a private school. When she took them to the public school she told the headmistress not to "tell stories about any princesses or any staff like that." Her children were to be treated exactly the same as anybody else. They were to mix with all the other children and be taught their friends. And so they have. Princess Juliana seemed to like the informality of her life here in her own home when servants were hard to get she helped to do the housework and frequently did the cooking for the family according to a recent story written by Morris McDougall. She was an active voluntary worker at the Supermarket Shop which is run by ladies of Ottawa for the benefit of the Red Cross. She has been in Canada, at her own insistence, to her friends if the shop where she has helped eagerly, an enthusiastic and energetically. With her heart full of the needs of her country she always had her eyes open for anything sold in the shop that might be of value to her people. I want to say that overall," she would say. "It is a long one and you know," and the coat would be added to the large collection of goods that she required for the day when they could be delivered.

Not Good Mine Layers

Japs Not As Clever At Concealment As Germans Were.

The Japanese have a good assortment of land mines but aren't nearly so clever in their concealment that the Germans proved themselves in Europe.

Capt. L. B. Publisher, of Edmonton and Montreal, who was in Sicily and Italy with the Canadian Engineers has been in the Pacific several months as an observer of American and Japanese engineering methods.

The Japanese have effective standard mines but conceal them poorly, or often use grenades, shells, bombs or torpedos heads instead. They don't use them with any kind of thoroughness.

War Souvenir

Olympic Runner From Canada Finds Photo Of Himself In Germany.

Dr. Joe Geckells has admittedly produced a few surprises in his time but for "Mush" Limon, 30, of Vancouver, a shell-shattered house near the defunct doctor's Gladbach, Germany estate tempted the former city sprinter and Olympic runner to wander into the ruins.

Curiosity prompted the former city sprinter and Olympic runner to wander into the ruins. Of the once expensive furnishings only a small table remained intact.

And on that table the amazed airman noticed a framed picture.

Goggle-eyed, he took another look.

It was a picture of himself, accepting the baton from Phil Edwards in the Olympic relay. The photo was taken in Berlin in 1936.

Limon has it now, his most cherished souvenir of the war.

"Mush" now somewhere in Germany with the Ottawa squad ran was based at Nidderhausen when he wrote his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Limon, West Vancouver.

SMILE AWHILE

Physi: "What did your husband think about that expensive new hat you bought last week?"
Flo: "He just raved about it."

"What was it you wanted to tell me?" asked the boy on furlough.
"Oh," said the girl, "it was just that mother last night asked me to ask you if you wanted to ask my father anything, he's going out of town tomorrow."

Wife: "How can we estimate our cost of living?"
Husband: "That's simple; take our income and add 30 per cent."

After giving the private a dressing down for being so late in returning with the supplies, the sergeant demanded, "Okay, let's hear how it happened, Miller."

"Well, I picked up a chaplain along the way," explained the woebegone rookie, "and from then on the miles couldn't understand a word I said."

First Shopper—Why are you racing around on a hot day like this?
Second Shopper—"I'm trying to get something for my husband."

First Shopper—"Have you had any others?"

"All men who are fond of music, two paces forward!" bawled the top sergeant.

When half a dozen eyes had stepped forward, with visions of getting free tickets to a concert, the sergeant added, "O.K. you six mugs come along, we've gotta plans to make."

The weary father was marching up and down at 1 a.m. with a wailing infant in his arms, when there came a knock on the door. It was the tenant from below, carrying a pair of new shoes.

"I say, old man," he said, "while you're about it, you might bring these in for me."

A man, running after a train, pointed to the conductor, "How much to the station from here?"

"Twopence," replied the conductor.

The man continued to run, and having covered another stretch, inquired breathlessly of the conductor, "How much now?"

"Threepence," retorted the conductor, "You're running the wrong way!"

"Do you think our new neighbors are desirable people?" asked the man of the house.

"Oh, yes," replied the wife. "I watched them unload their belongings. They have a lawn mower and their own garden tools."

An English tourist travelling in the North of Scotland, far away from anywhere, exclaimed to one of the natives:

"Why, what do you do when any of you are ill? You can never get a doctor?"

"Nae, sir," replied Sandy. "We've just to die a natural death."

RUSSIA'S NEW IDEA

A new commercial electric vehicle which, without wires, picks up electricity for its motors from under the ground is reported from Russia; the power is from high-frequency current in an electro-magnetic field formed around conductors placed at intervals underground.

Emeralds were credited by sages of ancient times with the power of strengthening the sight of those who wore the beautiful stones every day.

Merchandise Junked Before War Selling Well In Paris Shops

The big department stores of Paris, which were showing deficits year after year before the war, have experienced a sudden prosperity. The Bon Marche, for instance, showed a loss of 21,000,000 francs in 1938 but had a profit of 23,000,000 in 1941. The stores are now selling out at a good profit all the broken, outmoded, and rejected merchandise which they junked in the warehouse before the war.

NOT HIS FAULT

Two American soldiers who had just arrived in Britain found the telephone boxes somewhat confusing. One of them was trying to make a call.

After manœuvring with buttons A-B and dialing the operator, he had just pressed one of the buttons when a Y-bomb exploded nearby. Stumbling out on his knees, and covered with dust, he found his pal flat on the pavement somewhat hurt. He said: "Honest, Joe, all I did was press button A."

Canadian Prisoners Of War Tell Of Interesting Experiences They Had In The Prison Camps

(By A. C. Cummings)

WHENEVER they had the opportunity the Germans took Canadian and United Kingdom prisoners of war to cities near their prison camps to show them the bombing done by the Royal Air Force. They selected museums, churches and hospitals, and always bitterly complained of the damage done to works of art and historic places. But the prisoners were not impressed.

"We had seen some of their newspapers and noticed how they had boasted of what they had done to cities in the United Kingdom so we didn't care," Flight Lieutenant Ralph R. Henderson of Vancouver, who bailed out of his aircraft over Duisburg in 1941 and spent three years and eight months in various German prison camps, told me. "Going had been boasting in those days that the only life that would be left in London will be cats prowling about ruins at night." So men of the Royal Air Force merely considered as they viewed the wreckage in German towns that "Jerry" got what was coming to him.

Conversations with many Canadian and other prisoners of war now in London indicate that while some camps were badly managed and the occupants badly treated, others apart from the food, which had been starvation diet except for the Red Cross parcels, were reasonably good. Sports, theatricals and concerts could be organized, and often the German guards interfered very little but left things to the highest-ranking officer among the prisoners.

The bitterly cold winter of 1941 was particularly trying for Canadians. Sometimes they would bribe a guard to allow them access secretly at night to the fuel heaps to get enough wood or coal to keep the wooden huts at bearable temperatures.

Flight Lieutenant Henderson spent some time in a punishment camp at Lubek—not for anything he had done but because the Germans said the British troops had committed "atrocities" in Crete. They had not, for the so-called atrocities were the work of Cretan guerrillas, but the Nazis said British officers in Germany would be punished by way of reprisal. Flight Lieutenant Henderson spent three months at Lubek. "There was very little food," he said, "and the discipline was as strict as they could make it."

A curious point was made by an other released officer, whose name cannot be given because he is in the British Army. He said the regular German officer of the Prussian cavalry seemed ashamed of the manning of Canadian prisoners.

"We noticed among some of the German officers," said my informant, "a curious sense of inferiority. They seemed to want to impress us although we were their prisoners. So we took advantage of it. We told them, whenever we had anything to complain about, that it was not what we expected of them and that it was not suitable behavior for a soldier. It often worked. They have a curious psychology, some of them."

Many Canadian prisoners came out through Odessa on the Black Sea. At first the arrangements made by the Russians for their conveyance, mostly in box-cars over railway tracks choked with war supplies going up to the distant fighting-fronts—was makeshift and inadequate. Food was short and at Odessa arrangements for the departure home were very poor. Since then, however, later batches of prisoners describe how the Russians, since they had properly organized the reception and despatch of British prisoners, treated them very well.

Wing Commander R. R. Stanford, DSO, triple DFC, ex-fighter pilot who led the famous Burma Squadron in the Battle of Britain and was credited with shooting down 29 enemy airplanes, says that the Russian doctors have excellent service and that the food was plentiful. "I feel," he declared, "that the alliance between Britain and Russia is a real one based on a genuine admiration of the Russian fighting man for the British."

However, the journey across Poland was a deadly business at first and when on one occasion the repatriation train left the tracks, several prisoners lost their lives.

On the whole, the Canadian soldiers and airmen seem to have fared better in German prison camps than the men of the United Kingdom. Those tell harrowing tales of life in stables with one meal a day for months on end, of having to do heavy work when weak from lack of food, of having been clubbed with rifles and of having to sleep without blankets or fires in the freezing cold of the Polish winter.

Britain Rebuilds

Statements of England Are Anxious To Rebuild House Of Commons

Now that peace has come again to Europe, the statement of England are anxious to get on with the rebuilding of the House of Commons.

It is common knowledge that the House of Commons was destroyed by enemy action. A Select Committee has been considering the rebuilding of the House of Commons, and they have now issued their report. The Committee chose the famous architect, Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, to guide their deliberations and produce plans.

It is intended that the new building shall be in keeping with the Gothic style of the Palace of Westminster, and that the scene of industry and almost conversational form of debate encouraged by the old Chamber shall be maintained. The floor of the former Chamber accommodated only 366 members of Parliament out of a total of 615, and this will not be increased, though more and better accommodation will be provided for the Press and the public in the galleries. Below the Chamber, however, there are to be rooms for Ministers, for conferences, interviews, and secretarial purposes. Many more telephones and call-boxes for members and Press representatives are to be installed.

A new system of heating and ventilation will ensure that members sitting in the Chamber will have cool heads and warm feet. A system of sound amplification is to be introduced so that speakers can be heard all over the House. A domestic type of window design has been adopted as being more suitable than the stained-glass-window type in the old Chamber.

The Royal Fine Arts Commission state that Sir Giles has overcome the difficulties and provided a dignified solution. There is every indication that the new House of Commons will be worthy of its worldwide renown as a home of democracy.

Missed Their Chance World-Cruising 'Planes

Italians Had Good Opportunity To Gain Control Of Mediterranean

With wartime censorship regulations relaxed, a reliable source in Ottawa disclosed that there was a time in 1941 when the Italians could have gained mastery of the Mediterranean.

Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham, with two battered cruisers and a single destroyer, successfully penetrated one of the greatest seas of the world when he held that sea for the Allies.

His job was to keep the Italian fleet in the dark as to the deplorable British Mediterranean strength so he sneaked out at night close to Italian shores and with audacity picked off ships of the Duke's navy. Daylight would find him steaming very ostentatiously into a port widely separated from his previous appearance. He always made a noisy arrival and by changing the appearance of his ship deceived the Italians for months into thinking he was a great fleet.

A reliable source said the Italians could have overwhelmed the admiral's spunky little flotilla in a few hours had they learned the truth of the situation.

EARTH STILL BIG

The New York Times says everyone nowadays likes to say that the earth is swiftly shrinking. So it is. One can telephone from Times Square to Australia. One can breakfast here and dine in Glasgow, or make Bombay from Miami within the hours of a week-end. But for armies and navies and their supply services the earth is just as big as ever it was.

STILL A SECRET

Britain's largest underground factory, built to evade bombing, is in a disused coal mine and covers an area of 80 acres. F. A. Greene, president of the Institution of Chemical Engineers, stated at the annual meeting, "Location of the factory still is secret."

Ship Building Centres In Britain Receiving Heavy Orders For Ocean Vessels Of Various Types

ORDERS for up to date merchant ships are pouring into British shipyards as the seas fire in Europe makes possible a reduction in the amount of naval building required. Rear Adm. Sir Frederick Wake-Walker, third sea lord and controller of the navy, has told a conference of shipbuilding and engineering unions that the industry will have to continue on a strict priority basis until Japan is beaten, but a five-year plan has been drafted by the government to replace war losses of the merchant fleet.

From orders already received, shipbuilders say the post-war cargo ship will be bigger and faster, capable of carrying between 12,000 and 13,000 tons. Most of the early liners are expected to be combined passenger and freight vessels.

"There is no doubt that the express cargo-carrying liner of 15,000 tons has come to stay and many will be built after the war," said one shipowner.

Within the last few weeks shipbuilding contracts have received contracts for such liners valued at several million pounds. In many cases the need for ships is so urgent that companies have placed contracts without reaching any agreement on cost.

The latest available figures on British merchant tonnage were provided by the government last November—12,500,000 gross tons compared with 17,500,000 tons before the war. But much of the available tonnage is standardized war-built replacements not considered suitable for post-war merchant service.

Several British yards recently were asked to tender for a 35,000-ton liner as sister ship to the Montania, built by Cammell Laird in 1939. The Canadian Pacific Steamship Company whose 12,000-ton Empress of Britain was lost on war service will also require several vessels.

Since the outbreak of the war, yards already are beginning to get away from wartime austerity lines and equipment and fittings are getting back to pre-war pattern.

"We have many orders in hand but we anticipate a labor shortage even when we get all our men back from the services," said an official of one big Tyne-side firm.

No Redeeming Quality

Heroic Legends Can Never Be Built Around Nazi Gangsters

What a mongy lot they were—and are those Nazis! The Prussian Junker is cruel, pitiless, thinking of human beings in terms of cannon fodder, but at least he surrenders with dignity. No dignity nor any other quality redeems the Nazi, a cowardly gangster in the end, welcoming on his confederates prepared to give their lives to save his.

What a world this would have been had this sort of gangster ruled. Only one thought of hope comes from their shame and their scoundrelism—the thought that at least no heroic legend can ever be built over or around cheap gangsters such as these. Ottawa Journal.

SOME ACT

The theatrical producer was giving an audition to a man with a new act.

"Producing a puppy from his pocket, the man played on the piano, whereupon the puppy calmly proceeded to play part of one of the operas."

"Wonderful!" exclaimed the producer. "I'll give you $1,000 a week for that."

"But that's not all," said the man, producing from another pocket, a parrot which perched on the piano, sang an aria from the opera to the puppy's accompaniment.

Almost speechless by now, the producer managed to bring out an offer of "$2,000 a week for that."

"Here," said the man nervously, "before you decide, I must tell you this act is a bit of a cheat. You see, the parrot can't sing. The puppy's a ventriloquist."

MEANING OF SOS.

It is curious that the letters of the well-known distress signal "SOS" do not stand for any particular words. Many believe them to represent "Save our Souls," or some similar phrase, but they do not. The letters were chosen as the official distress signal because the dots and dashes that represent them are easy to learn. They are: Three dots, three dashes, three dots.

Stuck To His Post

King George Stayed With People All Through War

It was V-E Day in bomb-cracked London. Thousands of Britons milled in the square in front of Buckingham Palace shouting, "We want the King and Queen!" They went on for some time until finally a shrill cockney voice cried:

"Where's George?" During the ensuing laughter the King and Queen, together with the two Princesses stepped out on to the palace balcony and were cheered to a standstill.

That Londoner's shout was not really a question—he knew it and the crowd knew it. They were perfectly aware that the King was where he had always been—among them. King George stuck to his post as had his subjects in spite of blitz, fire and V-horrors. Bombs had blasted his home as it had theirs. But the King and the Royal Family remained and tilted with their people. That "Where's George?" may not have been in keeping with court etiquette, but it was the spontaneous expression of the personal admiration and love which George VI has won from his beloved cockneys. A PROBABLE COAL SHORTAGE (By H.G.L. Strange)

It seems queer with the summer coming along—we hope—to be talking about coal for next winter, but so it is. I have made careful inquiries about the coal situation and it seems to me that it is highly probable there may be a coal shortage in Western Canada next fall and winter. There is already a bad shortage of coal in the United States, and so it is likely that because of a lack in the U.S.A. Ontario will draw much more heavily than usual on Western Canada for their supplies next fall and winter. The prairie farmers, therefore, who need coal next winter, would be well advised to buy their coal supplies as quickly as possible. By doing this they have nothing to lose but on the contrary would have an assurance that they would have coal for next winter while it is still available at western mines. The partial demobilization of the Armed Forces, we must remember, will not permit many, if any, men to be available for coal mining in time to dig for this next winter's supplies. Then in addition to a shortage of coal miners, the existing shortage of freight cars will probably be worse next fall and winter.

VEGETABLES FOR U. K. $10,500,000 DEAL

Under the terms of an agreement just completed, the British Ministry of Food will purchase 746,700 bushels of Canadian dried white beans grown in 1945, and such additional quantities as may be made available from the Special Products Board, the Dominion Department of Agriculture has announced.

The British Ministry will also purchase from the Board from the 1945 crop, 4,375 long tons of dehydrated potatoes and 2,250 long tons of dehydrated cabbage, carrots, turnips and beets. The Ministry agrees to purchase an additional 10 per cent of these products if available. Total value of the beans and dehydrated vegetables is placed at about $10,500,000.

BAD SPRING WEATHER

Over most of the continent the spring weather has been cold, rainy and generally backward. In Ontario and Quebec continuous rain and cold weather has done millions of dollars worth of damage to vegetable crops. The northern tier of the United States is likewise suffering. Parts of Minnesota were blanketed with snow recently, and the temperature went down to a minimum of 26 above zero.

RETAIN HIGH FOWL PRICES

Fowl may sell at highest price levels until July 31, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces. This time extension from June 30 is being allowed in order to discourage early slaughtering of laying hens and to maintain maximum egg production across Canada.

PRODUCE MORE FARM MACHINERY

New measures to increase farm machinery production to 130 per cent of 1944-45 rates, are announced by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Early in May the Board predicted that present production, maintained at 100 per cent of the 1944-45 rate, might be increased with termination of war contracts and improved supplies of raw materials.

The new order removes all restrictions on the production of repair parts but continues rationing of items in short supply.

Neither producers nor importers may sell any machinery or equipment requiring rubber tires without written approval from the administrator of farm machinery, H. H. Bloom.

Up to the middle of May, 1945, the Royal Canadian Navy had suffered the loss of 24 warships. Of this number there were 10 corvettes, 6 destroyers, 5 mine sweepers, 2 patrol vessels and a frigate. Canada is the world's greatest producer of pulp and paper.

We Canadians, together with the citizens of the United States and Great Britain, will eat less sugar during the balance of 1945.

To meet our own needs and the urgent requirements of our Allies and the liberated countries, our share of the reduction must total nearly 200,000,000 pounds of sugar during the rest of the year.

To assure fair distribution of what is left, the sugar ration is to be cut by five pounds during the next seven months by reducing the monthly allotment to one pound in June, July, August, October and December. In September and November, the allowance will remain unchanged at two pounds.

The ten pound sugar allotment for home canning, represented by twenty extra preserves coupons, remains unchanged. Two regular preserves coupons will continue to become valid each month.

ANSWERS TO YOUR QUESTIONS ABOUT SUGAR

Q. How does Canada get its share of world sugar supplies?

A. World stocks are pooled by the Combined Food Board of the United Nations which allows sugar to Canada, United States and Great Britain on a uniform per capita basis.

Q. Where does the rest of the world sugar supply go?

A. To other claimants, including liberated areas, European neutrals, Russia, the Middle East, New Zealand and other sugar-importing countries. Approximately one-half of this total is destined for liberated areas.

Q. Is there less sugar in the world today?

A. Yes. Because beans are up and production is down, world sugar stocks reached a new low at the beginning of 1945. By the end of the year, they will be down again, this time to a dangerous minimum.

Q. Why is there more demand for sugar?

A. The rising demand largely reflects the needs of liberated areas.

Q. Why is there less production?

A. World sugar output is lower for three reasons:

1. Enemy occupation of some sources such as Java and the Philippines. Java, of course, is still in Japanese hands and, although the Philippines are liberated, production is not expected to be restored until late in 1946.
2. Other export countries have experienced serious shortages of labour and fertilizer.
3. Record drought conditions and hurricanes have also cut into production in the important West Indian area.

INDUSTRIAL AND QUOTA USERS WILL ALSO GET LESS

Effective July 1, 1945, sugar made available to industrial users, such as bakers, biscuit and breakfast cereal manufacturers, makers of soft drinks, confectionery and candy, and jam and wine manufacturers, will again be reduced.

A further cut is also being made in the allotment to quota users, such as public eating places, while similar reductions are being made by the Armed Forces in the sugar quotas for service personnel.

"Some day

truck *"

In recent years, Canadian farmers have overcome a multitude of difficulties. Despite labour shortages, storm and weather hazards, they have consistently increased production, and harvested the record crops so vital to a nation at war.

They have been handicapped, by lack of proper distribution facilities, in getting produce to market, farm-fresh. Many who realize the time and labour a General Motors truck would save, look forward hopefully to the time when they are again available.

That time is coming . . .

The time when Victory signals a General Motors change-over from war to peace production . . . the time when all the experience, engineering skill and productive power now being used by General Motors to fashion tough, durable armoured vehicles, will be directed towards the production of sturdy, General Motors trucks — dependable, great-hearted trucks that will mean less work and worry, more leisure and prosperity for farmers and producers everywhere.

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

FIGHT AGAINST VD. RECEIVES IMPETUS

The Dominion-wide fight to stamp out venereal diseases received impetus recently when both the Saskatchewan and Alberta legislatures approved amendments to their Marriage Acts making premarital blood tests for syphilis compulsory. Amendments in both provinces are to come into force July 1.

These measures will involve a long-suspected syphilis inasmuch as these two provinces, in common with the others have legislation providing for compulsory treatment for known syphilis.

Premarital blood tests have been advocated by the Health League of Canada for many years, and their necessity was re-emphasized in the May 16-21 special Stamp Out VD campaign which was sponsored jointly by the League and the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association in co-operation with health departments. Premarital and pre-natal blood testing, if made compulsory throughout Canada, would do much to win the battle against syphilis.

Before the recent amendment was approved, Saskatchewan's Marriage Act provided that no person authorized to solemnize marriages should perform a ceremony if either of the parties to his knowledge was suffering from a communicable disease in a communicable state, and until each of the parties concerned had furnished a health certificate.

The amendment provides that "the medical examinations covered by such certificates shall take place within 30 days immediately preceding the date of the solemnization of the marriage and shall include a serological test for syphilis." The health certificates must be forwarded to the provincial health department by the performer of the marriage ceremony within 24 hours after the ceremony.

Alberta's legislation before the recent amendment provided that no clergyman could perform a marriage ceremony after the publication of banns unless the parties produced affidavits that they were not at the time suffering from a venereal disease or tuberculosis. This was amended by the insertion in the affidavit of the words "to the best of his knowledge."

Under the main amendment to the Alberta Act, however, no issuer of marriage licenses is allowed to issue a license nor is any clergyman allowed to publish the banns of a marriage unless there has been filed with the proper authorities a medical certificate certifying that a specimen of blood for a serological test for syphilis has been taken and has been or will be forwarded to the provincial health department. The test must take place within 14 days before the application for license or first publication of banns, and a certificate to that effect filed.

The physician involved is not required to give an opinion; merely to take a blood specimen, submit it to the laboratory, and convey the result of the test to the person concerned. The laboratory is required to report all positive tests to the Director of the provincial Division of Social Hygiene.

In both provinces, the medical examination and blood test may be waived under certain extenuating circumstances, but only on approval of the Minister of Health.

Air Future Bright

Canadian Pacific Airlines Official Says Canada Can Lead World

"Canada can lead the world in aviation and can provide gainful employment for 50 per cent. of the men in the RCAF, if she adopts a progressive international aviation policy," Grant McConachie, western Canadian manager for Canadian Pacific Airlines, told 100 delegates at the first R.C. provincial air conference in Kamloops, B.C.

Mr. McConachie said that if Canada hopes to get her rightful share of post-war business in the air, she must provide service equal to or better than that of any other nation. We have the fliers," he said. "None are better than our Canadian boys. We have technicians, the ground crews, the maintenance men but we must have good aircraft too. If we have that and a far-sighted policy we can become as great a trading nation in the air as Holland was on the sea a few centuries ago."

Gave More Power

British Scientists Produced Super-Fuel For R.A.F. Fighter Planes

British scientists in 1943 produced a "super-fuel" greatly superior to 100-octane fuel, which gave R.A.F. fighters 20 per cent. more power and enabled them to catch and destroy many of the German flying bombs aimed at Britain, the ministry of aircraft production has disclosed.

All Allied requirements for the new fuel known as 160-octane were met by British refineries. Preliminary steps to ensure that the R.A.F. could count on supplies of ordinary 100-octane fuel were taken before the war began, the ministry said. Now government plants in Britain alone yield more than 150,000,000 gallons of aviation fuel annually.

Now Hospital Ship

Former Italian Liner Can Carry More Than 120 Cases

The former Italian liner Gerusalemme now is a naval hospital ship. Her conversion was carried out in Durban, South Africa, and she now is considered the most modern hospital ship in Union waters. The ship can carry more than 420 cases in her 11 wards. The liner lay unused at Laurens Marquis for four years after she had managed to reach that port at the end of a chase by bombers of the South African Air Force at the outbreak of war with Italy. She was brought to Durban after Italy's capitulation.

REG'AR FELLERS—Prolific Idea Man

"I keep running out of money!"

Not Easy Job

To Make Germans Like Sub-Commander Change Fantastic Ideas Oberleutnant, Friedrich Wilhelm Marlenfeld was the skipper of the German submarine U-128 when she surrendered to American naval forces and was taken to the Portsmouth Navy Yard. He is 25 years old, a native of Hamburg, and appears to be well educated. He appears also to have been well propagandized. So do members of his crew.

Oberleutnant Marlenfeld talked freely to Navy officers at Portsmouth. He told them quite a number of things. For example: He said his U-boat commander would think of retreating now "because for every such act of treachery 10,000 Germans would be killed in retaliation."

He said he knew the Allies are "quite satisfied" because "they don't allow captives to receive any food." He said Adolf Hitler was a great man, that Germany had not started the war and that Germany had not really lost the war.

He said the crews of German U-boats which surrender "should be treated like brothers and not like prisoners of war."

Maybe a German sailor cooped up in a submarine for weeks at a time doesn't get much of a chance to learn what's going on in the world. But Oberleutnant Marlenfeld seems to have done a workmanlike job of learning what the Nazi propagandists wanted him to learn. Presumably he is typical of German submarine men and a lot of other Germans as well. It just goes to show what a tremendous job will have to be done to disabuse him and others like him of the fantastic lies they have accepted as gospel truth. Buffalo Courier-Express.

HAD ITS LIMITS

Along the country road walked a man and a woman. The latter was bullying the weak little fellow who trudged in front of her with down-cast head.

Suddenly the woman turned and saw a bull racing down the road behind them. She took refuge in the hedge, but her companion kept on, unimpressed by everything but his nose. The bull caught him up and sent him spinning into a muddy ditch. Then it continued on its wild career.

As he crawled out of the mire he saw his wife coming towards him. Plucking up a little courage, he whimpered: "Maria, if you hit me like that again you'll really make me lose my temper."

ORIGINAL "HAW-HAW"

An English traitor who calls himself the original "Lord Haw-Haw" was exposed and seized by U.S. troops while acting as interpreter for an American military government official, Norman Baillie Stewart (above), former British officer who spent five years in the Tower of London for "selling his country for 50 pounds," admitted after he was exposed, that he worked for the German propaganda ministry and the foreign office for the last five years.

The Perfect Tribute

Was Paid To David Livingstone By Scottish University Students

David Livingstone, missionary to Africa, was to receive an honorary degree from a Scottish university, where it is the custom to make sport of such candidates, the students sitting in the balcony and calling out caustic remarks. If he be a wealthy soap manufacturer who has made a handsome gift to the university, he may be greeted with "Hi Old Soap-Maker." When Livingstone was to appear for a degree, many wondered how the students would contrive to humiliate him. His appearance was anything but prepossessing, weary and worn. As his name was called the students varied their procedure, rising to stand in absolute silence, their tribute to one whom they recognized as great.

OUR COMPLETE
SHORT STORY—
Three's A Crowd
—By—
HENRY W. ATHERTON
McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Walter Williams, old man Blain's secretary, wasn't exactly happy. The glare of the sun on the water hurt his eyes. He took off his glasses and squinted at the three people in the stern of the cabin cruiser.

Ellen Blain, her father and Dean seemed unaware of him as they cruised smoothly along. Walter had to admit the young boat salesman was handsome. The deeply tanned face showed up well above the white pullover sweater. The powerful jaw and snapping black eyes gave him away, though.

When they had anchored off Deer Island Mr. Blain selected the strongest oar and reel. "I won't need any help, Dean," he said, giving the rod a powerful swing toward the reef. "I was fishing before you learned to talk."

"Fine. You'll have plenty of action in a few minutes," promised Dean. "To keep the line a little tighter, though. They hit pretty hard, and you don't want to lose the first one."

"I thought you said there were lots of fish here," Blain grumbled, and cast again.

"There are, but you don't keep your line in long enough for any."

thing to find it," answered Dean sharply.

The president of the Sun Oil Company slowly turned a brick red. "What'd you say, young man?" he spat. And then his line sang as it sped through the water. He gave a sharp puff, and the rod bent double.

"Loosen up! Let him have more line!" yelled Dean.

"You're making it hard work. If you'd relax, and do as I say you wouldn't be all in."

"You said I was tired?" shouted the old man. "I'll land him if it takes a week."

Walter Williams gave Ellen a knowing glance. "The manager of the boat company told me they don't often send Dean on fishing parties," he began. "Said he is all right at selling, but has a nasty temper. I'm sorry we asked him to come with us."

"I think it's fun," Ellen laughed excitedly. "Dad hasn't had anyone tell him what to do in years."

"Your father doesn't like it," replied Walter. "He wants to buy a boat so he can entertain the firm's customers. I suppose it'll be up to me to find another one," he added.

"Let me help if you're tired," grinned Dean.

"I'll toss you out later," shouted Mr. Blain. "And be more careful with the gaff."

"A beauty," Dean told him. "Large red fish caught in years. Over forty pounds."

"Looks like a whale," beamed the old man. "But him on ice, and then come back here. There's a lot I want to say to you."

Dean chuckled. "I guess I did over a little." He looked the fish over carefully and shook his head. "I'm sorry, we'll have to put him back. There's a thirty-six inch limit on red fish."

"What?" shouted Mr. Blain. "You must be crazy."

"It's the law," Dean explained calmly.

"I'm the boss of this outfit," exploded the old man. "My camera's in the clubhouse. I'm going to take pictures when we get back there."

Dean started the motor, and swung the boat about. "Very well. Keep the fish if you want to, but remember there's a fifty-dollar fine if you're caught. Just keep quiet around the boat now."

Walter hurried to get the camera. He went into the club bar. "We caught a fifty-pounder," he boasted to the manager. Glancing around he said in a low voice: "Have it down on the boat now."

Ellen was taking the third picture when the game warden came over. "I'll take that fish," he said. "And the fine is fifty dollars."

Half an hour later Dean hurriedly left the office of the boat company and drove back to the yacht club. Walking angrily into the bar he saw Mr. Blain. "Your secretary didn't waste any time running to my boss. I've been fired, thanks to you."

"What?" spluttered the old man, jumping to his feet. "I told Walter to tell your outfit we wouldn't be interested in buying the boat," he shouted. "I didn't."

"Your secretary," said the club manager quietly, "is the one who tipped off the game warden bragging about a 50 pound red fish. Seemed to want everyone on the bar to hear him."

In Blain's town house that evening Walter felt completely happy. He would spend the next few days looking at new boats. There might even be a little commission coming his way if he worked it just right. But then he heard his employer's voice: "I can use a man of Dean's ability."

"He'll need a good salary, father," said Ellen. "We may be together a lot in the future."

Walter's heart pounded. Something was terribly wrong. "I know you're tired," said Ellen. "But hasn't it been fun? And Dean can take charge of the new boat when you buy it," she added.

Mr. Blain chuckled. "I'm going to do a lot of fishing with Dean," he admitted.

"Walter will be disappointed," said Ellen quietly.

Mr. Blain started shouting. "Just wait until tomorrow morning. My vote," he said huskily, "won't stand the strain now. Anyway I want the entire office force around when I fire Walter."

Have No Illusions

British People Know Peace Demands
As Much As War

H. V. Morton, in the R.B.C. Series on "Life at Home," says: "One good thing about our attitude at home here in England is that we have no illusions from this time. We know the Peace is going to demand almost as much from us as war. It was very different last time. How well I remember what it felt like to be demobilized—a queer twisted feeling of wild joy and regret, not unmingled with fear and how well I remember the strange and improbable reflection in shop windows and that M.E. wearing a bowler hat!—could it be true?—and how often my hand went up smartly to the bowler's firm when passing in a general for we did a lot of sailing in the last war! But, above all, I remember the belief, which was shared by most of my generation, that when the war had been won a new Golden Age would automatically open up before us. Well, it didn't. And I think it's a good thing that now, when the War, or the European half of it, has ended, nobody at home thinks that we can 'lead the peace without leadership, vision, faith, truthfulness, self-discipline, hard work and oh well, a new moral code.'"

Just Retribution

To Impress The Rank And File Of Our Enemies

Perhaps it is too much to expect that every one of the millions of Nazi war criminals will be punished but certainly the start this time is much more suspicious than 26 years ago. Then the guilty were not even mildly scared, most of them only amused. There is a different situation today. Rough justice has already caught up with strutting Mussolini and many of his henchmen while literally scores of Nazis have taken the easy way out by committing suicide. Of course records are blacker and consciences should be guiltier this time, but there is also real fear of retribution. It is to be hoped that this fear will continue to be well founded. Every effort must be made to do this disgraceable job of sanitation thoroughly and promptly and if at all possible in a way that will impress the rank and file of our enemies that justice is being carried out, not persecution. Japan's Land Grab

Eight Countries Lost Control Of About 2,706,600 Square Miles

Through warfare in the past 50 years, Japan has grabbed land totalling 2,706,600 square miles in area, with a population of 308,212,000 that belonged to eight countries: China, Britain, France, Thailand, Russia, Portugal, the Netherlands and the United States. Our territory being Guam, Wake and the Philippines. Including its own people Japan therefore controlled, one year ago, 21 per cent of the population of the world. Colliers.

The Clever Dutch

During German Occupation Assembled Entire Plane To Preserve Details

Dutch workmen in a Fokker plane factory at Amsterdam during German occupation stole enough parts to constitute an entire plane and buried it in the factory grounds to await liberation by the Allies, it has been revealed. Said one: "We were afraid that important details of manufacture would be destroyed in heavy air raids before Allied experts could examine them."

More Treasure

Was Uncovered On Crag High In Austrian Alps

The state treasure of Hungary, including the total gold reserve held in all Hungarian currency in circulation, was uncovered recently by the U.S. 80th infantry division on a rocky, pine-covered crag high in the Austrian Alps.

The treasure trove, hidden at the ancient mountain village of Spital Am Pyhrn, was unearthed by Hungarian Sgt. William J. De Hossar, Chicago.

It included 1,000,000,000 pengos ($130,000,000 at the present rate of exchange), 20,000 kilograms of gold bullion worth $200,000,000 complete sets of Hungarian bank note plates for printing all Hungarian currency and other wealth representing most of the capital interest and individual deposits of Hungary brought from Budapest before the Russians captured that city.

Also in the mountain top chapel cellar were more than 1,000,000 Reichsmarks, $150,000 in American currency six cases of priceless Hungarian art treasures, including historical 14th century illuminated manuscripts belonging to the ancient Magyar kings, and 20 cases containing jewels and other valuables once the property of the royal Hungarian court.

This wealth in money, art and jewels was watched over by the pro-Nazi president of the Royal bank of Hungary kings, and 500 financial experts, clerks, bookkeepers and other employees, guarded by 200 picked Hungarian gendarmes.

Allied supreme headquarters said the treasure was hidden to remove the Magyar kings, and 50 cases containing jewels and other valuables once the property of the royal Hungarian court.

But a patriot Hungarian stalled on the job and deliberately misled keys and vital records and generally sabotaged the German attempt at plunder. When the Americans arrived the Germans fled in panic.

Children With Defective Vision Well Looked After In Chicago

Children with defective vision are keeping pace with eagle-eyed youngsters in Chicago's public schools. Children whose sight has deteriorated to the danger point are put in special sight-saving rooms. There they study with a minimum of eye strain and learn how to conserve or improve their vision.

Everything in these rooms seems unique. The walls are painted a sea-foam green and light floods through huge, studio-sized windows. Movable desks are shifted about so the light always comes over the student's left shoulder. Adjustable desk tops are fixed at each pupil's reading range. Blackboards are soft green, yellow chalk is an inch thick and writing paper is buff colored. Books are set in large, 24-point type and wall maps are big, simple, heavily lined.

Typical of the departments set up within various regulation elementary and high schools are two rooms at the Bell School. In one are tots of the first through fourth grades. Some have their strong eyes covered with a patch. Each uses, and thus strengthens, the weak eye.

In the other room are older boys and girls. Using the touch system, they poke out their writing lessons on typewriters equipped with over-size letters. When their eyes tire, they rest.

Their condition is checked and rechecked. Of the 337 scholars placed in the special rooms in the three most recent semesters, 65 fared well enough to graduate and 62 recovered sufficiently to return to their regular classes.

Trained teachers instruct the sight-savers in the special rooms, but they receive in their regular class rooms. They also eat and play with their normal schoolmates.

Do they feel handicapped? "They think they're privileged," says one of the teachers.

Tip For Cattlemen

Brand Should Be Used That Will Not Damage Hide

Wide and brand branding of cattle on those parts of the body which supply the best leather is responsible for a considerable discount in the price of hides. Many cattle in Western Canada are produced under what might be called semi-ranch conditions and the animals must be marked in some way for identification. Owing to large brands spilling the hides for the manufacture of the best leather, it has been suggested that cattlemen might consider the use of the smallest possible brand that would give good protection and at the same time be placed in a position that would cause the least possible damage to the hide. The mark might be made on the ears, jaw, neck, shoulder, thigh or rump.

Brand, which is a heavy porter to world wide markets, passed a law in 1939 prohibiting the branding of cattle on the body proper. Only brands that may be compassed by a 1½ inch circle may be used and placed only on the cheek, neck, or legs below the belly line.

MIGHT BE GOOD IDEA

An English court has acquitted two school masters of assaulting an 11-year-old boy by caning him. It found that the caning was not excessive. It is too bad, says the Brockville Recorder and Times, that the cane and the strap have passed out in favor in this country. If they were still put to good use, we would undoubtedly have better discipline and less juvenile delinquency.

RETAIL MERCHANTS STAMP DAY ON FRIDAY, JUNE 29th

One of the things that is causing concern to the National War Finance Committee of Canada is the attitude which seems to be prevalent throughout the Dominion with regard to any further financing due to the termination of hostilities in Europe. The prevailing opinion seems to be that now that the war in Europe is over that no more money will be required to get Canada back to a normal basis. Nothing could be further from the truth. There is a tremendous amount of work to be done. The war in the East has yet to be won. The young men and the young women of Canada have to be brought home and rehabilitated. The manufacturing concerns which have been devoting all their time and energy in war production have to be reconverted to peace time requirements. All this requires a tremendous amount of money.

On Friday, June 29th a provincial wide Stamp Day is to be held and it is the duty of every citizen of this Province to show that they still retain their sense of responsibility by having War Savings Stamps through their local merchants on that date.
